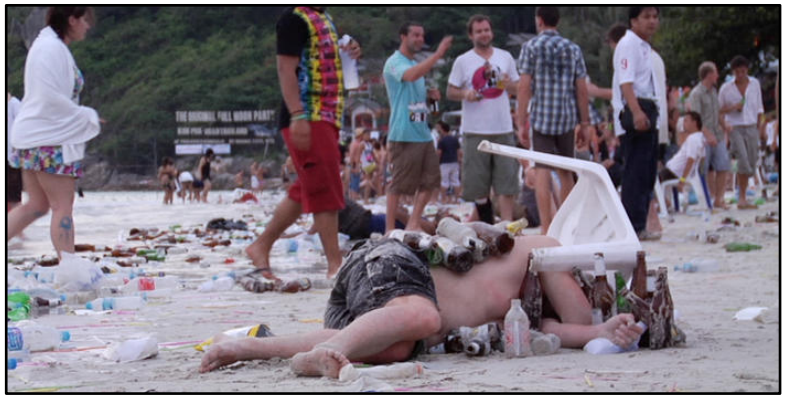
Nature, Ecology and Society & Space Time Research Collective Present

A Screening of the 2013 Documentary

Gringo Trails

Are tourists destroying the planet–or saving it?

A deeper look at the impacts of tourism in the global south



How do travelers change the remote places they visit, and how are they changed? Gringo Trails*, a new documentary film offers answers—some heartbreaking, some hopeful. From the Bolivian jungle to the party beaches of Thailand, and from the deserts of Timbuktu, Mali to the breathtaking beauty of Bhutan,* Gringo Trails shows the unanticipated impact of tourism on cultures, economies, and the environment, tracing some stories over 30 years. Directed by Anthropologist Pegi Vail ,PhD.

Tuesday, February 11, 2014 @ 6:30 PM

Graduate Center, Rm. 6304.01, Sylvia Scribner Conference Room

Brief Discussion Moderated by Nature, Ecology and Society to Follow with Light Snacks and Drinks

Admission is free, RSVPs are requested: https://docs.google.com/forms/d/1zxui_UIE-lNruiJYi07kvM_6jHQHmAMPzlzWhbA3TKc/viewform